THE doctors who attended Mrs. Clapp, who died at a Middlebury hotel under suspicious circumstances, say she died of acute peritonitis, but as the man in whose family she had been working has fled the country, this diagnosis helps on rather than quiets the local scandal. The papers are after the state's attorney be-cause he doesn't start an investigation.

While two young men, Clarence and Forest, sons of John Gilmore of Woodstock, were out hunting for partridges, Clarence coming in front and in range of Forest's gun as he discharged it at a partridge, received the charge himself. Ten shot entered his person; one shot entering his left lung, two his cheek, knocking out two teeth, and another in the top of his head. The most danger is anticipated from the one which entered his lung.

ST JOHNSBURY is pleased over a joke on the ST JOHNSHURY is pleased over a joke on the leader of the South church choir. The organ has been out of tune, to the disgust of the leader, but on a recent Saturday the instrument was tuned without the leader being aware of it. On Sunday he made the usual wry faces over the accompaniment, and on Monday asked the organist to have the instrument put in tune. When the facts were made known, a bribe to secrecy was promptly given to the organist, but somehow the story got out.

A shocking and fatal accident occurred in Van Dyke's saw mill at McIndoes Falls last week. Daniel McGinley was at work on the jacking machine, guiding the rope over the spool as it was wound up, when his hand was caught by the rope and he was whirled around. His head was split completely in two, killing him instantly, and his body otherwise mangled. He was nighteen vents old unmarked as He was niueteen years old, unmarried, and the only support of a widowed mother. His remains were carried to Lancaster, N. H., for

THE ladies' society of the North church at Ludlow can certainly take the pie, if not the cake. At a recent church festival there were furnished the following thirts seven kinds of pie: Chicken, pork, beefsteak, mince, mock-mince, oyster, strawberry, currant, plum, peach, cran-berry, pumpkin, squash, onion, boiled cider, sweet potato, carrot, lemon, raisin, orange, cream, eccoanut, apple custard, apple, blue-berry, blackberry, dried apple, raspberry, corn-starch, cracker, rice, Washington, cherry, but-ternut custard, fried, and prune.

MYRON AMBLER, who has been confined in jail at Hyde Park for a month on charges of embezziement preferred by his partner, M Smalley, was released one day last week, after a settlement which seemed unsatisfactory to both parties. Ambler was released about seven colook by M and want ways after hydrogen o'clock, P. M., and went away after buying a bunch of matches and some tobacco. About nine o'cl ck of the same evening the sugarhouse of Smalley, situated on the road which Ambier took, was found on fire, and was totally consumed. Loss about $600; unin-sured. Ambier was arrested and committed the same night on suspicion, ST. ALRANS has been excited over the finding of a man's body in a ceffin about six inches under the ground. After investigation is seems probable that the body was that of a soldier named Edward I. Ordway of Troy. It is very probable that after his death the body and his effects were put into a ceffin and started for Troy, it went to St. Albans by mistake, and as no-body came to claim the body it was buried there by the express company. The extreme shallowness of the grave can perhaps be explained by the supposition that the parties hired to bury the body neglected to do their work well, or that it was intended to exhume it as soon as anybody called for it.

REGARDING the sale of the Franklin house, which has created quite a flurry in the usually quiet town of Vergennes, but little can be said. The facts are, as we understand from good au-The facts are, as we understand from good au-thority, nearly as follows: Thursday of last week the sale was consummated from the heirs of the Hiram Adams estate to Samuel S Gaines, on terms which are private, though not up to what the property would be estimated at by the assessors. The furniture of the hotel was not purchased. Considerable speculation has been indulged in as to the future of the Franklin house block, but from present indications it is probable the present proprietor, Mr John W. Jackson, will continue to eccupy the hotel for another year. It is rumored that Mr. Gaines proposes turning the lower story of the present hotel into stores, when he comes into possession. The sale, as it is understood, includes the store adjoining, now occupied by Mrs. M. E. Benedict.—Free Press.

The entire roof, with the inside walls and fron and stone columns, of the new south wing of the state capitol building at Madison, Wis., fell the 8th inst., killing four workmen and injuring nineteen, three of whom will die. The cause of the accident is somewhat uncertain, but the most plausible theory is that the heavy iron pillars supporting the roof of the second story balcony sank into the plank on which they rested, thus pulling the sound wall outward, which in turn caused the roof of the entire wing to cave in. These columns were entire wing to cave in. These columns were made of large pieces of bolier iron rolled into circular form, stovepipe fashion, the jointures not being bolted together.

A CYCLONE Struck Springfield, Mo., last week Monday, destroying seventy houses and injuring one hundred more. Eleven persons were killed and many more injured, some of whom will die. Food and fuel were distributed to the sufferers, and in cases where money was needed that was forthcoming. The local committee is of the opinion that for the present the city can care for all the helpless, but the future looks dark. Citizens subscribed $3 000 and the larger portion of it has already been distributed. It was but a drop in the bucket, and was used mainly for medical attendance and medicine. Of the seventy houses swept away about sixty were owned by mechanics and small business men who could ill afford to lose them, and upon whom the damage falls with the greatest severity. ### Educational Meeting at Bethel.

The Orange and Windsor counties teachers associations, in connection with the state su-perintendent of education, held an educationa associations, in connection with the state superintendent of education, held an educational meeting at the Congregational church, Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. The first session was held Thursday evening when Superintendent Dartt delivered a very able address upon Factors in Educational Work. The first factor is a Christian home. Church and society are great aids, but next to the home comes the common school; these all meet upon a level. The people must learn that in school matters, spending is not always extravagance and saving is not always extravagance and saving is not always excording (?) the education. Vermont must not go behind other states in this work. In order to secure better schools a change of system is needed; this can be brought about by placing the work in the hands of the town as that will secure equal taxation, now demanded by the people. The address was a thorough and able exposition of the wants of the pupils and the duties of the people, and a full report would be given were there space in your columns.

Friday morning, after the devotional exercises W. B. C. Stickney, Esq., of Bethel, addressed the association upon the subject, How to Speak the Truth. He would have teachers cultivate accuracy of speech and thought, and to this end cultivate observation, attention, perception and consideration. Principal L. B. Permort of Hartford spoke upon Disci-tion, perception and consideration. Principal L. B. Permort of Hartford spoke upon Discipline and School Management. He would make school discipline chi-fly a matter of imitation. Principal Perry of South Woodstock spoke of his method of discipline in a boarding school. Principal W. H. Sanderson of Woodstock took a different stand and would be kind yet firm. Various other speakers follows. ing school. Principal W. H. Sanderson of Woodstock took a different stand and would be kind yet firm. Various other speakers followed, each of which had a method of his own; some of these methods were highly appreciated by some of the pupils present. Friday afternoon the session was opened by Miss Carrie A. Curtis of Bethel in a very interesting showing of how the kindergarten can be adapted to the ungraded schools, illustrating her subject by a display of the various articles used in kindergarten work. Principal W. H. Sanderson spoke upon the various methods of teaching reading. Superintendent L. H. Spaulding of Bridgewater and Miss Mary L. Fullington of Woodstock suggested many good methods of teaching spelling. Thoroughness is very essential. After the afternoon session the proposition was made to reorganize the Orange and Windsor counties teachers' associations and a White River Valley association was also proposed. Superintendent Dartt thought more people could be reached by having seperate associations for each of the two counties and a joint meeting could be held once every year. Professor W. F. Rocheleau of Randolph was somewhat discouraged as to uniting Orange county in an association. Principal Sanderson said good meetings cost time and strength and thought. A committee of three was appointed to report a list of officers in the morning. Friday evening, What can the People Do for the Schools? was first discussed by Superintendent E. H. Martin of Wil i mstown who thought that the neglect of some parents to in-Do for the Schools? was first discussed by Su-perintendent E. H. Martin of Will i mistown who thought that the neglect of some parents to in-terest themselves in the education of their children was almost a crime. All have a duty to perform, and the parents should take special care to perform their whole duty in this mat-ter. I require attendance can be presented. care to perform their whole duty in this matter. Irregular attendance can be prevented.

Parents must give the schools their support;
the teachers and the pupils their sympathy.
A stream will not rise above its fountain. Get good teachers and then sustain them. The methods of farming, and why should parents be content with the old methods of teaching?

Mr. Thatcher of Royaliza, continued the methods of farming, and why should parents be content with the old methods of teaching? Mr. Thatcher of Royalton continued the discussion. The people cannot advance interests in the school by meddling with the government, but can by visiting and by interesting themselves in school matters. Rev. R. G. Bugbee, superintendent of Bethel schools, in continuing the discussion of the question, would preach to self as well as to others. We do not take the interest we should. All are to blame. School districts are the fussiest of corporations, and the smaller the corporation or school district, the more fuss. The will and the wont of the school district conscience is a great obstacle when in the way; ignorance of what is inside the schoolroom is a great drawback; ministers and teachers, a species of tramps who as soon as they fairly learn the needs of their charges are compelled to go. To perpetuate our free form of government we must educate our children and by education counteract the influence of the mass of ignorance coming to our shores yearly. The discussion was continued by various continued by various continued by various constinued.

dren and by education counteract the influence of the mass of ignorance coming to our shores yearly. The discussion was continued by various gentlemen who brought forward many good thoughts that were of interest to all present. Principal Edson of Randolph said the question was not a one-sided one. Teachers should make the schoolroom a place of interest and introduce themselves to the parents who will be ready to meet them. Teachers are to blame, if the walls of the schoolroom are disfigured. E. A. Maxham of Bethel was called up as one of the people and was heartily in accord with all that had been said upon the subject. He would keep the young from corruption. The people are to blame, if there is trouble in the schoolroom. Superintendent Dartt showed by statistics taken from the last census, the connection between the illiteracy of those of school age, and then spoke for a few moments of the interest now taken in gducational matters as compared with that of two years ago. He thinks education is now the question of the day. He here urged all to press forward.

Saturday morning, after the devotional exercises Professor Rocheleau moved the adoption of the following resolutions:

(wery cer. Resolved, That the thanks of the association be ex-ecded to the people of Bethel for their studiesses and or the interest they have manifested in the meeting, and also to all who have attended the meetings, for their Resolved. That the thanks of all be extended to the Con-regational society of Bethel for the use of their course and for lighting and warming the same, and also o the Central Vermont rallway for the courtesy of re-urn che ks.

Professor Rocheleau of Randolph considered for a short time the subject of physi logy and hygiene. It has been made a leg-1 study, but no special preparation has been made for it. He would not teach at first any but known truths and facts and would teach them simply as truths and facts without giving reasons. The teachers should first get for themselves sure information. Ignorant smatterings of sci-The teachers should first get for themselves sure information. Ignorant smatterings of scientific matters are worse than total ignorance. Say that you do not know, when that is true. Daviding the subject into several parts, Professor Rocheleau then gave a very interesting talk upon the best methods of teaching the young the facts he would have them taught. He would not lecture the children, but would teach them facts and let them see for themselves the effects of alcoholic beverages and narcotics upon the system. During a short recess the teachers of Orange county met and elected Superintendent E. H. Martin of Williamstown president; Miss Allis of West Randolph and Mrs. L. A. Curtis of Orange vice presidents; W. F. Rocheleau of Randolph, secretary; W. H. H. Cummings of Bradford, Miss F. H. Graves of Brookfield, executive committee. After the recess Professor A. L. Hardy of the West Randolph high school spoke upon penmanship and made an interesting exhibit of the methods used by him in the schools at West Randolph. He was followed by Miss M. E. Barker of Randolph, she having for a subject, Compositior. The people were much interested in the meeting and threw their doors open to the educators. The church in which the meetings were held was filled with those interested in educational matters and many of the parents expressed themselves as having been greatly benefited by the meeting. There were seventy-two teachers and six town superintendents present.

The Virginia Campaign.

All information from Virginia goes to confirm the first impressions that a widespread agree-ment existed among the Bourbon leaders to in-timidate the colored voters. From being the most orderly of the southern states in submit-ting to the reconstruction measures it has sud-denly wheeled around and adopted the means used further south to control elections. So far as the state is concerned, the action of the democratic leaders towards the close of the late campaign appears, from the reports which have reached this point, to show as full a determina-tion to nullify United States law as existed in any southern state before the war. In assert-ing this determination little attempt is made at concealment. A citizen of Mississippi, of high standing at home, and recognized there as one of the most reputable men in the state, was talking here a short time before the election on talking here a short time before the election on the subject of negro voting. He said that, in the first place, he did not believe that a single colored man in the South had ever voted the democratic ticket of his own free choice; that every negro firmly believed that the republicans had fought to see him free, while the democratic had fought to keep him in slavery. He declared that this was well understood and fully appreciated by the democratic leaders of the South, and by common consent hereafter in one or two ways the South was determined to protect itself. It would either keep out the colored vote by a well ordered system of intimidation, or it would throw out the votes in the cunt. The gentleman proceeded to defend this course on the ground of self-defence, arguing that the right of self-protection would jusing that the right of self-protection would jus-tify southern communities in resorting to the means indicated to save them elves from negro domination, but whether right or wrong he said it was a course definitely decided upon. The recent occurrences in Virginia are accepted here as clear indications of such a determinahere as clear indications of such a determina-tion. The fact that the reconstruction of that state was consummated without violence, and that in the main elections have heretofore been free throughout the state, give greater significance to the methods just employed by the democrats there. It is construed here to show that the North will again have to deal witha "solid South," made solid, as before, by nullification of natural law, showing itself in a different way than in 1861, but no less nullifi-cation.—Washington dispatch to Boston Adcation .- Washington dispatch to Boston Ad-

Cipher Citizens not in Order.

General Apathy is the only commander trusted by democrats or feared by republicans. With him out of the way, democrats would be beaten in the Northern States that vote this here for one reason, and there for another, but everywhere for some good reason. It has not been a year of bands and banners of torches and fuss. But the American citizen who needed these things to wake his patriotism has no right to the liberties gained by the men of Valley Forge. Republicans are not tired of their principles. They believe just what they did about the slave and the rebellion, about the need of a free vote and an honest count, about the bonds, the banks, and the dollar, about public honor and protection for home industry. But there are some who fance that all these things belong to a past with which they now have nothing to do. They are tired of beating the democratic party, and wish it would take itself out of the way. If it only would, these citizens would like to vote about some new thing. When they come to the edge of the precipice next year, they will refuse to vote away all the past. Then they will see that the democratic party is not out of the way, but is just what it was. But now they see not much, and lag a great deal, and are tempted to be cipher citizens for once. If they have thrown away votes this year, they will be sorry. They will have ten times as hard a struggle when they get their eyes open in 1884. The plain truth is that the democratic party has been kept alive thus far by the republicans who at times did not do their duty. They went to sleep, or they thought the democratic party was dead, or they dreamed of impossible parties on narrow and fleeting issues, and so they let the foe get back strength and hope. These same republicans, by making cipher citizens of themselves at previous elections, caused the close fight in 1868, and in 1876, and in 1880, and other, but everywhere for some good reason. same republicans, by making cipher citizens of themselves at previous elections, caused the close fight in 1868, and in 1876, and in 1880, and their foolishness has now fixed things so that another desperate struggle next year will be needed, if they do not take the work in hand to-morrow. The men who dream of new issues and new parties ought to know by this time that the country is never going to throw away its past for the sake of any new party. Democracy must get out of the way, with its hatted of all that is grand in the past or worthy in tred of all that is grand in the past or worthy in the present, before the voters of the country will be ready to forget that past in new divisions. Any men who help to put a reactionary democracy into power will thereby do what they can to make themselves and their ideas detested, and to put off indefinitely the consideration of new questions.—New York Tribune.

Why the "Royal" Is the Best.

The improved method by which it has been The improved method by which it has been made possible to produce pure cream of tartar, has had an important bearing upon the manufacture of baking powder. By the process heretofore generally employed it has been found impossible to remove all impurities, more particularly the tartrate of lime, which remained to such an extent as to greatly impair the quality of the cream of tartar, and to interfere seriously with the strength and wholesomeness of the baking powders into which it entered.

In the new process, which is owned by the R val Baking Powder Company of New York, and exclusively employed in its extensive tartar works, the imported crude grape acid is so treated as to remove all vestige of tartrate of lime or other impurities, giving a product before unknown—a chemically pure cream of tartar.

fore unknown—a chemically pure cream of tartar.

By the employment of these superior facilities the Royal Baking Powder Campany has made the Royal Baking Powder, as the chemists all certify, of the highest possible degree of strength, "absolutely pure" and wholesome, and with an always uniform leavening power. It is for these reasons that the "Royal" never falls to produce bread biscuit, cakes, etc., that are light, sweet, digestible and wholesome; the eating of which is never followed by indigestion, or any of those physical discomforts attendant upon the partaking of improperly prepared food. In rendering possible the production of a baking powder possessed of these qualifications, the improved method of refining cream of tartar becomes at once a matter of material importance to the culinary world.

Why is it so many suffer from rheumatism, aches, pains, kidney disease, liver complaints, heart affections, etc.? It is simply because they will not come and be healed. All disease begins from a want of iron in the blood. This want of iron makes the blood thin, watery and impure. Impure blood carries weakness and distress to every part of the bedy. Supply this lack of iron by using Brown's Iron Bitters and you will soon find yourself enjoying perfect freedom from aches and pains and general ill health.

DR. J M. KLEIN, Walterboro, S. C., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters have given universal satisfaction."

Dr. J. L. Myrrs, Fairneld, Ia., says: "Brown's Iron Bitters is the best iron preparation I have ever known in my thirty years of practice." A FLOCK of blackbirds estimated at a mile in length flew southward over Parsons, Kansas, one morning recently.
